To Whom It May Concern:

I have been writing insurance and providing loss control services for apartments for over forty years. In addition, my wife and I have built, owned and managed hundreds of apartment units since 1975. We still own and manage numerous rentals today.

At present I underwrite an apartment program for Lloyds of London. I also provide loss control services which includes training management in proven loss control techniques. Over the last forty years I believe I've seen just about every kind of apartment claim possible.

I have reviewed thousands of property claims and found that 90% of all incidents are tenant related. The largest single cause of fires in apartments is unattended cooking. In my opinion, the single most effective thing an owner can do to stop fires is install fire suppressive stove top canisters. Most underwriters understand the effectiveness of the canisters and afford premium discounts and/or smaller deductibles for their installation. I have given this advice to hundreds of owners and have Auto-Out canisters in my home and all my rentals.

Sincerely,

Larry K. Davis, Program Administrator
